Hi, my name is Tanna Jones. So far the covid-19 has brought fear but great news throughout my family. With news of an addition along with keeping clean becoming more serious on career goals was also something this time off is giving my household. Some time to reflect on this being the first time back in school (since failing after high school) has been a completely new experience that has gave me the confidence that this time will be different. I have had a awesome professor that has been on top of everything and also managing to reach out to check up on how things were going. Although I am excited to see the day we can all go free healthily, I have not had a bad enough experience to complain.
