DIVE IN AT DMACC DAYS

“Dive In at DMACC” activities welcomed students back at all six campuses this fall, when a record number of students began classes. At the Boone Campus, Patrick Christenson, left, and Pierce Gustafson, center, both Boone High School students taking classes at DMACC, and Mason Cartee, a Liberal Arts first-year student from Boone, enjoyed a special lunch.

E. J. Hicks dances as if he is Beyonce Knowles during the hypnosis segment on the Boone Campus.

MAKEOVER FOR APARTMENTS BOOSTS OCCUPANCY

More and more DMACC Ankeny Campus students looking for a full college experience are taking advantage of the upgraded and additional student housing now available at the remodeled Campus View Apartments on the west edge of campus.

Construction crews worked throughout the late spring and summer remodeling the existing apartments and added another wing to the housing complex that now offers housing for 325 students. Apartments in the new wing offer three- or four-bedroom floor plans that include granite countertops, a flat screen television and two bathrooms.

First-floor weight and fitness rooms have been added and work is nearing completion on a second-floor movie theatre room.

Workers also have been busy on the new center courtyard at the housing complex. Campus View Apartments LLC purchased the apartment complex from the College in early 2010 and has future plans to build a new luxury apartment community with retail outlets and shops adjacent to the campus.

BALES OF HAY

The weather finally cooperated so that DMACC Agri-Business Instructor Wade Boehm could cut the hay on the field next to the lake on the DMACC Ankeny Campus. The hay will be used to feed the livestock at the DMACC Farm near Adel.
CONSTITUTION DAY EVENTS AT DMACC

DMACC will host its sixth annual Constitution Day with events scheduled on all six campuses. This year’s theme is “Constitutional Rights on the Digital Frontier.” Cindy Cohn, legal director for the Electronic Frontier Foundation (EFF), will deliver the keynote address at three campuses. Blythe Burkhardt, intellectual property and agreements coordinator in the Washington University Office of Technology Management will speak at the Boone and Urban Campuses. Roxann Ryan, Senior Criminal Intelligence Analyst with the Iowa Department of Public Safety’s Division of Intelligence and Fusion Center, will speak at the Carroll and Ankeny Campuses. Ben Stone, executive director of the American Civil Liberties Union of Iowa, will deliver the keynote address at the West Campus.

Here are the times of the speakers at each of the campuses:

Thur., Sept. 16—Newton Campus, 6:30 p.m., Room 210A

DMACC PIONEERS CONNECTION

The DMACC Pioneers gathered for a group photo at the FFA Enrichment Center during their kickoff program on Thur., Sept 9, for the new academic year. More than 100 Pioneers and guests attended and heard from DMACC President Rob Denson and Foundation Executive Director Ganesh Ganpat at the evening program.

The annual garage sale brought in a whopping $11,541.93 this year. Every penny will go to student assistance. Thank you to everyone who donated items and who gave generously of their time to make this a success. THANKS.

The next Pioneer event will be the Oct. 14 meeting. The Pioneers will meet in the parking lot of the FFA building at 11:30 a.m. and carpool to the Berry Patch Farm of Dean Henry, who taught in the Automotive Program and related classes at DMACC for many years. Attendees will be able to pick fresh apples and take part in a hayrack ride. Lunch will be catered by Applebee’s and an apple dessert will be served.

The November meeting will feature pizza, popcorn and a great movie. Your admission to the movie will be a donation for the Student Food Baskets to be delivered for Thanksgiving and Christmas. Hope you can all join us for more fun activities.

Call (515) 964-6868 to register for the October meeting by no later than Mon., Oct. 11, at 4 p.m.
