Byron Hamilton resigns as Dean of Boone Campus

"THE LAST EIGHT YEARS HAVE BEEN THE PINNACLE," said Bryon Hamilton upon his resigning as Dean of Boone Campus. Hamilton made the announcement of his resignation in November, and began utilizing his accumulated leave time on Nov. 14. Hamilton, a native of Minnesota, has served as Dean of Boone Campus, DMACC, for the past eight years, a time which he says he will always remember as a good period in his life. A farewell coffee was held for Hamilton by the Boone Campus office staff, faculty and campus personnel, and on hand to extend their good wishes were, above from the left, Boone Public School Superintendent Don Riemenschneider, Director of Plant Services for DMACC Don Zuck, Hamilton, Boone High School Principal Larry Harrington, and at the right, Carroll Bennett, Vice President for Instruction for DMACC. Until a new Dean is named, Bennett, Hamilton's Administrative Supervisor for the past three years, will be coordinating the operation of the campus with Rich Finnestad.

Activity fees put to good use at Boone Campus

By MARCIA MATT
Bear Facts Editor

QUESTION: What do the following activities have in common? Athletics, cheerleading, drillteam, student senate, Phi Beta Lambda, Recreation Club, publications, drama, Phi Theta Kappa, student center and intramurals, N.S.U.?

ANSWER: They all share the money brought in by the student activity fees on Boone Campus.

This money — $11 a student per quarter — amounted to 5,000 during the fall quarter of 1981 and was divided among the above activities according to percentages set down by the 1980-1981 Student Senate.

Many students feel that it is unfair for the school to charge additional fees for admission to certain events such as the October Halloween party, or the upcoming Christmas party. But because the total amount is divided between so many different organizations, it doesn't amount to very much for any given area. Therefore, it is often necessary for many of the groups to raise extra money, according to George Silberhorn, activity director of the Boone Campus.

Admission to the Halloween party was charged to pay for the decorations and refreshments used that

November was the month of Thanksgiving and I was thankful for the end of the fall quarter. (Weren't we all)? I guess that you begin to get burnt out with the same schedule, so a change in curriculum is always nice.

This quarter starts off so nicely that most of us won't even notice that we're in class at all. We spend only two weeks on campus before the holiday vacation, and then enjoy two more weeks of break. BUT, just think what it's going to be like when we come back for the start of a NEW YEAR!!

Just think about all of the studying we'll have to do when we return. (We could all wish that the world will end before then, but there isn't a very good chance that it will. Perhaps a letter of request to Libyan President Kadaffi?).

Anyway, the short time that we do spend on campus during December, is filled with many activities.

All students will enjoy Monday, Dec. 14 — Christmas at Boone Campus. During the day, a variety of holiday happenings will occur, and that evening will find many students enjoying themselves at the annual Christmas dance and party to be held at the Threstle lounge in Boone. MARK YOUR CALENDARS!

The temperature may be cold outside on Dec. 16, but things will be warm in the student lounge when the chili feed takes place. Chili will be served for a few hours that morning and afternoon and it will be a small price to pay for as much as you can eat! Everyone should plan to really pig out that day.

As for the activities of the past month, major activities were almost non-existent as everyone geared up for final exams. The Gong Show was a riot, but it really makes me wonder about the sanity of a few students.

A few gossip happenings also occurred during the month...It seems that Tanya Bogle hit the big "25 - years in age" early in December, and really celebrated the event with her friends that night (happy birthday, Tanya). Quite a few people also traveled to Des Moines already this week to hear the Foreigner concert, and a few more will go to Ames tonight to see the Oakridge Boys.

Perhaps the biggest event of all since our last publication took place in the DMACC office when our famous activity director George Silberhorn (you all know him, he's the man we all run to for advice) attempted to sit down on a chair that simply wasn't there. It is rumored that he landed on the floor on his ---. (Maybe we should find out just how wise it is for us to run to him for advice.)

Merry Christmas everyone (even you George)!

Student survey

By DARLA DIXON

We recently asked a few Boone campus students to supply the meaning for the word "antidisestablishmentarianism." Here's what we found out:

Tammy Knight — "It's when you get in a fight with your boyfriend and don't speak to him."

Sandie Cernie — "A Communist anarchy."

Linda Essert — "A bunch of prefixes and suffixes put together."

Tammy Nicklos — "A demolished building."

Lisa Sealine — "It's something you put in your trash can."

Teresa Johnson — "Who cares!"

Jennie Westberg — "It's what happens to people who are on drugs."

Do you know what "antidisestablishmentarianism" is? An opposition to the disestablishment of a church or religious body.

evening. The remaining profit — less that $60 — was divided between the cheerleaders, the drill team and the Rec. Club who sponsored the party. (The Student Senate also helped to organize the Halloween dance, but received no percentage of the profits).

The Christmas dance profits will be used to pay for cost of the buttons being sold as admission tickets, and also for the chili feed to be held Dec. 16 in the student lounge. The price for the feed will be 50 cents for all the chili you can eat. Because of this low cost, no additional profit is expected from this event.

No admission is charged to either the homecoming activities in February, or the annual pig roast in May.

The activities and the percentage currently being allotted to them from student activity fees are listed below:

- Athletics, 50 percent
- Cheerleaders-Drillteam, two percent
- Student Senate, 17 percent
- Phi Beta Lambda, three percent
- Recreation Club, three percent
- Student publication, 10 percent

Pac Man - the latest craze in entertainment

BY DARLA DIXON

It has been a long and tiresome day — beginning before 8 a.m.; and it has been another busy one. Of course when one is a popular mechanical toy, one has to endure a steady diet of quarters.

The small characters race across the screen attempting to munch the large dot which is frantically gobbling up the small dots at the same time. During the musical intermission, these characters identify themselves as the major performers in the Pac Man game — the newest activity craze on the Boone Campus.

Several students have become obsessed with this money munching machine, and it is for this reason that there is always a crowd standing around the south-east corner of the lounge begging one another for quarters.

Many students find the game a comforting way to deal with anxiety, while other find the game to be the cause of anxiety.

To play the game, a student deposits a quarter and depresses the single player button. A network of pathways will then appear on the screen and the sirens will blare from within.

A control stick movable in four directions directs the path of the large yellow dot which will "munch" on the hundreds of little white dots. Extra points may be earned if the yellow dot successfully gobbles the characters after they turn blue, or by crossing the paths of the other symbols which periodically appear on the screen.

Sound confusing? Well, this is only a part of the way to play Pac Man, but it has become so popular on the Boone campus that almost any student can explain it to those unfamiliar with the procedure.

Hotdog singers take top honors at talent show

By MARCIA MATT
Bear Facts Editor

It was probably the "shortest" Gong Show in history — lasting just over 12 minutes, but the competition was stiff and the acts were "perfectly polished" (?) for the show. But, they had to be top-notch because the contest was the DMACC Gong Show the the top prize was a giant 13 cent check. (And you know that that's a millionaires' ransom).

The Gong Show was the brain child of the Boone campus Recreation Club and was organized by many energetic campus students.

A number of talented (?) DMACC students participated in the event, and although it often seemed that the same people were appearing in all of the acts, the first effort at a "talent" show was an interesting and comically entertaining break from routine.

Buck (Gary Leland) Charris was the host for the noon-time show of insanity spoofing the once popular television series. He lived up to his Chuck Barris image by donning a variety of zany hats between acts.

Charris was assisted by Karen Folkman and Lisa Overturf who were costumed as Happy Joe restaurant waitresses. The twosome recorded the scores received by each act as awarded by judges Bud (Clair) Abbott, P.U. (Lori Powers) Boxcar and Foster (Bruce Miller) Brooks.

The show opened with The Boundary Waters group who were all snuggled up in their sleeping bags for an night of camping in the wilderness. This brave recreation of a recreation club trip went along "smoothly" until the group of brave campers elected to make the process of elimination a joint venture. It was at this point that P.U. Boxcar gonged Ellie Cyr, Paula O'Hare, Jean Golightly, Tanya Bogie and Chrystal Spricher.

Robin Webb and Pam Marnar appeared next as the campus Nerds. Outlandish costumes (formerly worn for the annual Halloween party by some of DMACC's most "distinguished" students), and a horrendous rendition of "Twinkle, Twinkle Little Star" netted the twosome a score of five points.

A regular Gong Show performer — The Unknown Comic — deadened the crowd (but lived up to his name) by rattling off too many wellknown jokes and riddles. (Better luck next time, Dave Phelps).

A Bunch of Good Peckers took to the stage next to dance wildly and forcibly encourage many audience members to join them in the "chicken boogie." The judges seemed to enjoy the act and presented them with a final score of 28 points.

It was Dan Lake and the Webb Weiner Wraps who stole the show, however, with their version of "We Love That Weiner Man." The act consisted of Karen Folkman and Lisa Overturf singing and eating a hotdog held by Dan Lake. It received a perfect score of 30 points — winning the coveted 13 cent grand prize!

The noon-time competition closed with all of the participants humming the theme music to the Gong Show as Gene Gene (Fred West) The Dancing Machine danced, and balloons, confetti and popcorn (?) flew through the air.

Many ideas discovered as Boone Campus students offer study advice

By DARLA DIXON

In the middle of the lounge, with the stereo blaring and lots of people talking is a common study habit for Boone campus students, and a great deal of studying was recently seen around campus due to the "annual" fall quarter final exams.

When asked about their study habits, most students indicated that they use several different methods, depending upon the coursework being done.

Of those preferring to study in the campus lounge, some students claimed this made the task easier because of the availability of breaks from the work. Students said that they often take time out to play a game of pool, ping-pong or pac-man.

One student indicated that although he did his studying in a lounge, it was not on campus. Instead it was at the My Place Lounge in Boone.

On the opposite side of the line are those students who prefer to study in the library. Those using this form of studying, indicated that the quiet atmosphere was necessary.

A number of students find that studying with the stereo turned on is helpful. The types of music enjoyed ranged from rock to jazz. (The most popular type was rock).

Several students also said that they study "on the spur of the moment" or when it's too late to learn anything.

The most interesting (and puzzling) answer provided concerned studying with the eyes closed. This method is said to provide a mental picture of the material.

Still other students said that they prefer studying in a comfortable chair, while watching television, or with a person of the opposite sex. (?) (That answer was as misleading as the student who enjoys studying (?) in the bedroom.)

Intramural activities are getting into full swing around the Boone campus as the winter quarter stirs up more student participation in the on-campus events.

Intramural activities include bowling, basketball and volleyball.

The success of intramural activities isn't the quality of competition, but instead, the quantity of student participation. Athletic ability is somewhat overlooked when recruiting for such competition.

Bowling has already started with 10 teams of three members each competing every Monday afternoon. Basketball and volleyball will begin in January.

Posters and roster slips are located in the hall next to the campus office. Fees are not required for basketball or volleyball.

Season opener a success

By BILL GIERY

The Boone Bears beat Indian Hills in the 1981-82 season opener Nov. 21 by a score of 57-56. After trailing by as many as 11 points early on, the Bears cut it to just seven by halftime due to the shooting of sophomore forward Todd Peterson.

As the second half opened, the Boone press started to take effect causing numerous turnovers.

The Bears had their share of turnovers, too. In the closing minutes, the Boone team led by six points, but lost the lead on two turnovers and two poor shots.

The Falcons of Indian Hills capitalized on the mistakes and took the lead for a moment before sophomore guard, Brett Stumbo hit a reverse lay-up with 21 seconds on the board. This proved to be the winning basket.

The Falcons missed an easy lay-up on the final play and sophomore center Dave Dunkelberger got the rebound to ice the game.

Dunkelberger finished with 14 points and nine rebounds, as did Todd Peterson. Freshman guard, Johnny Jackson lead the local scoring with 15 points and seven rebounds. Freshman Keith Wilson had eight points and Brett Stumbo added six.

Bears split in Penn Valley tournament

By BILL GIERY

The Boone Bears traveled to Kansas City over the Thanksgiving holiday to play in the Penn Valley Tournament.

In the opening game for the Bears, they took Fort Scott of Kansas, 71-69. The next night they lost to Penn Valley, 82-72.

In the first game, sophomore center Dave Dunkelberger hit the game winning shot with 16 seconds on the board. The score capped a tremendous comeback by the Bears. Before the winning shot, the Bears had trailed by as many as ten points, but returned with their swarming defense to win the game, 71-69.

Dunkelberger led all scorers with 24 points. He also grabbed 12 rebounds and had two steals. Johnny Jackson finished with 17. Keith Wilson had 15 points and six assists. Todd Peterson pumped in 12 baskets and had seven rebounds. Brett Stumbo had two and Bill Giery added one to round out the Boone scoring pattern.

In the second game against Penn Valley, Boone lost two of its starters due to foul trouble in the second half, and came out on the short end of the 82-72 final score. The bears had it as close as four points at one time, but that was as close as they got to winning.

Dave Dunkelberger had 20 points, with Todd Peterson adding 18. Johnny Jackson and Brett Stumbo had 14 and 10 respectively. Keith Wilson had eight points and five assists, and Steve Russell added two more points.
