The DMACC Cheerleaders, Drillteam and the Student Senate are sponsoring a Christmas auction in the student lounge at noon on Monday, Nov. 21. They are using this as a fundraiser for new uniforms, shoes, socks, briefs and for traveling expenses. Mrs. Silberhorn, sponsor of the auction, claims this year will be bigger than ever before. She says that some of the new and used items will be assorted shirts, pizza certificates, bookstore accessories, used basketballs, DMACC golf bags, beer signs, furniture and junk.

The cheerleaders are also holding a pep rally for Saturday's Season Opening Game Friday, Nov. 18. This will also be held in the Lounge about noon.
烟气进入我的眼睛-鼻子

A sampling of student smokers and non-smokers have differing opinions concerning the debate as to whether cigarette smoking should be prohibited in public buildings.

Student smokers believe it's their right to smoke whenever and wherever they want, and that this right should not be tampered with by non-smokers.

Student non-smokers have refuted this right and are rigidly concerned about the cancer risk of cigarette smoke. They believe separate areas for smokers and non-smokers in public buildings should be advocated.

"I shall not give up smoking whenever and wherever I feel like smoking my cigarette," Dawn Darrow, a student of DMACC said. "Rather let there be a separate area for smokers and non-smokers in public buildings, she concluded.

Steve Kela, an ISU student, says the right to smoke rests within the individual in question. "Cigarette smoking is a personal decision and any restriction to certain places might mean violation of rights," he said.

"We should not allow our sense of value judgment to deceive us as to violate the individual rights to good health and privacy," Kent Johnson, a Boone Campus student, suggests that smokers who want to smoke should consider the feelings of their opponents. Perhaps smoking in a hidden area such as in the restroom or private apartments would reduce the spread of cancer of the lungs.

Many experts estimate that about 75 percent of tomorrow's jobs will require technical specialization. With this in mind, many see vocational or technical education as a viable alternative to a four-year college or university program.

Vocational education consists of programs directly related to preparing students for specific occupations such as computer programming or stonemason. These programs prepare students for a wide diversity of occupations, from the most basic skill levels to highly skilled. In addition, other services help students overcome any lack of basic education and provide career counseling.

Interviews with vocational students and instructors reveal why more lowans are discovering vocational education:

- It stresses practical, concentrated learning.
- It is relatively inexpensive when compared to some universities.
- Vocational programs usually range from a few months to two years in length.
- The outlook in some careers is excellent for vocational graduates.

Vocational education is offered at 368 of 441 elementary-secondary districts in Iowa, as well as at all 15 merged area vocational schools/community colleges. Individuals interested in Voc Ed programs should contact high school or merged area school counselors or other school officials. These people can help you make a realistic and informed occupational or educational choice.

Part of the increase in enrollment is due to people in the work force who find they need to update their education in the field they are in or to start a new program.

DMACC students are made up from all walks of life and from different countries as well. There are 377 students registered from Boone County. The remaining students come from other places. There are about 10 other states represented and 18 foreign countries. The only continent that is not represented is Australia.

You know you're drunk when ......

By Chris Hunt

Being drunk can cause many problems and incidents that tend to be humorous. Most people consider this the lighter side of the effects of alcohol and do not care much about the consequences of excessive drinking.

If you were asked to complete the sentence, "You know you're drunk when..." what would you say? Would you remember the time (or times) you became sick? Or would you think of an event that you did which you would never do under 'normal' circumstances?

Some students at DMACC were willing to share some of their thoughts and experiences that happened to them, or a friend of theirs, while under the influence. The events listed below may remind you of someone you know or something you actually experienced while drunk.

These quotes are true but the names are not given to protect the guilty.

"...you don't know who brought you home, or how you got home, and then find out you brought yourself home."
"...you start buying everyone a pitcher of beer."
"...you try to paint your dog's toenails."
"...you fall down the hill and you don't get hurt."
"...you fall asleep on the couch and no one can wake you up."
"...you can't feel your hair."
"...you start drinking Schlitz."
"...you have to drive home because you're too drunk to walk."
"...you start dropping your drinks."
"...you try to pick up a guy while he's being questioned by the police."
"...you fall off your bunk bed and don't remember."
"...your ears get warm."
"...your roommate knows you're home before you do."
"...you pour beer over your friend's head and don't remember."
"...you wake up and you're wearing your girlfriend's pants."
"...you wear your tennis shoes on your head instead of your feet."
"...you go skinny dipping during a thunderstorm."
"...you can't remember where the bathroom is."
"...a semi moves to the middle of the road and to avoid it you go into the ditch and total your car."
"...the beer begins to taste good."

During July of 1982, Iowa passed a new law concerning drunk driving. The new law, OWI (Operating While Intoxicated), was passed in hopes that it would reduce the number of alcohol-related traffic fatalities—and the number of innocent victims killed by drunk drivers. OWI not only includes driving while under the influence of alcohol, but also narcotics, hypnotics, and other drugs not prescribed by a physician, or a combination of any of these.

Under the new law if you are stopped for drunk driving, the arresting officer can take away your license on the spot under two conditions. The first condition would be if you had a blood alcohol content (BAC) of .10 percent or more. The second one being if you refuse to take a BAC test.

The first time a person is charged with OWI because of high blood alcohol content he or she can lose their license for four months. The second time the license is taken away for eight months and the third time for one year. If he or she is charged because of refusing to take a BAC test, the individual can lose their license for six months or up to a year and a half, depending on if it's their first or third arrest.

If a person is convicted for the first time, not only does he or she lose their license, but they also can face up to a year in jail and or a $1,000 fine. For the second offense the individual has to spend a mandatory seven days in jail and up to two years in the penitentiary, plus a $5,000 fine. For the third offense there is a maximum five year prison sentence and a possible fine up to $1,000.

OWI is a very serious charge and should be something not taken lightly. There is no longer such a thing as "just getting a ticket for drunk driving". Anyone picked up for OWI now gets arrested, handcuffed, booked, fingerprinted, put in jail and possibly fined. The money, hassles, and the embarrassment should be completely avoided. The way to do that is not to avoid the law. Know your driving limitation and don't drive or let a friend drive after drinking. OWI is a conviction that can haunt a person for a long time, especially if injury occurs to an innocent victim.

Like the saying goes, "Don't discover your drinking limits by accident!". Remember, drinking and driving never mix, no matter what the circumstances are.

Hog Roast success

BY TOM JOHNSTON

On Tuesday, Nov. 8, the annual DMACC Hog Roast was held at the Moose Lodge in Boone. It was quite a night for everyone who attended.

People who came enjoyed barbeque pork sandwiches, potato salad, chips, and baked beans. The Moose Lodge served six kegs, kamikazes, and many other drinks.

Tom and Jerry, from country station KSO, were DJ hosts for the evening. They played Tom and Jerry, from country station KSO, Tom and Jerry gave out Coors decor including: posters, hats, scarves, ashtrays, and serving trays—all furnished by Coors.

At midnight, Tom and Jerry wrapped up the evening with “Sad Eyes.” Then everyone had to “carefully” make their way home. For those who couldn’t, the Sober Chauffeur was available.

About halfway through the evening the Coors Beer Wolf made his grand entrance. He danced a few songs and paraded around The Moose.

People who came enjoyed barbeque pork supplied by Tom and Jerry from KSO. The Hog Roast partiers dance to the music of Tom and Jerry.

Facility advisors assist with spring semester registration

With spring semester class work beginning on Monday, Jan. 16, many students and faculty members are now busy planning course schedules that will prepare them for the upcoming registration process. By careful selection of course work, students will be able to meet program requirements, degree requirements and transfer requirements on time and in harmony with their career objectives or objectives of additional education.

Faculty Advisors and the departments they represent are listed below.

- Department of Biological Sciences - Harold Johnson and Bill Ryan
- Department of Business - Donna Bildner, Vivian Brandmeyer, John Smith and Pat Thieben
- Department of Chemistry - C.J. Alexander
- Department of English - Bill Berge, Bea Clupper and Sunny Powers
- Department of Health and Physical Education - Larry Hughes
- Department of Government - Norman Erbe
- Department of Mathematics - John Doran
- Department of Nursing - Joan Van Grabow
- Department of Psychology - Cindy Plo
- Department of Recreation - Bill Alley and Marilyn McGinty
- Department of Sociology - Lee McNair
- Department of Speech - Jan Aurellis
- Counseling Services and Academic Advising - Rich Finnestad and George Silberhorn

Hog Roast party was a huge success on Tuesday, Nov. 8.

Student Senate projects OK’d

With the hog roast over the student senate members are starting on other projects. One being the calendar sales. Friday Nov. 18 is the deadline to order calendars. The orders are to be turned in at 9:30 a.m. at the regular Student Senate meeting.

It was also stated that they need a representative from the P.B.L. club and a nursing student to represent the Nursing department.

The follow up on student members is because the last two were unavailable by press time last month.

Andee Hughes--Andee is a 1983 graduate of Boone High and came to D.M.A.C.C. to complete the requirements before entering a four year college as an Elementary Physical Education instructor. She would like to coach sports at a high school level. Her interests are softball, and running. She said she was totally sports minded.

Jeff Wedvick--Jeff is a 1982 graduate from Deerfield High School, Deerfield, Wisconsin, and came to D.M.A.C.C. to play baseball and earn the necessary requirements before entering the University of Wisconsin. He plans to play baseball and receive a further education there, but has not yet decided what field he wants. His interests include sports, the outdoors-hunting and fishing, and having fun.

Rotaract happenings

BY JANE KOEING

Things are starting to move for the Rotaract Club. There was a potluck supper held at Steve Doran’s where people got acquainted and had lots to talk about. Steve thanks everyone who came to the meeting. Everyone enjoyed themselves and were able to set up some fundraising projects for the upcoming Christmas season.

A bake sale was held in the student lounge last week for two days. If you missed it, you missed a lot of good food. Our goal was to raise $75, and we were close with $68.30.

There will also be a chili feed in the student lounge Nov. 30 from 11:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. or until people stop coming. Watch for signs. We want to provide some fun and entertainment to the residents at the Boone County Care Facility this Christmas, and all proceeds from our projects will go for that.

There will be a potluck supper at Sue Black’s home Nov. 28 from 3:00 p.m. to 6:00 p.m. Come with your favorite dish as early as possible.

Child Care service evaluated

By Twila Tuhn

Cooperative child care on the Boone Campus is an excellent idea and would be of benefit to student-parents, according to several students, staff and instructors here.

Dean Kriss Philips agrees, 'but adds there are two sides to the issue. 'There are some pitfalls at this time there is no instructor available for such a program, but that could be rectified. No rooms are available, but the possibility of a portable building would be feasible if enough interest is generated,' Philips said.

However, anyone who furnished volunteer services for the program could possibly receive college credits.

'Ankeny has a child care program combined with the child development curriculum that offers credits for students in the child development classes. At the start, their child care program did not pay for itself, but it is now self-supporting,' said Philips.

This program would not only be beneficial for students requiring the credit, but also would definitely give 'real life experience' to anyone that might be interested, according to promoters of the program.

Financially, a cooperative care program would mean less expense for parents. For single parents this would make attending college much more feasible. Many student-parents have relatives who babysit for them free of charge, otherwise they could not afford to attend classes.

Both parents and students have expressed interest in volunteering the time and supplies needed to furnish a cooperative care center.

Toys, crayons, paints, chairs, tables, and food are some items which would be needed.

One Boone Campus instructor said a cooperative child care center was discussed two years ago, but was apparently dropped.

Philips said if enough interest is shown now, a committee or task force would be assigned to check into it. 'If anyone has any suggestions, I would welcome them,' he added.

Maybe it's time to evaluate the situation and develop a 'plan of action'. 'With so many parents, married and single, returning to further their education, it is certainly worth investigating.' Philips said.

International trade is new focus

By DAWN E. DARROW

Three new classes will be offered through D.M.A.C.C next spring due to the federal funding of an innovative program called Curriculum Modification in International Trade. Former Gov. Norm Erbe, Boone, coordinated the courses.

The purpose of this program is to offer instruction in promoting and developing export markets for small businesses in Iowa, marketing of goods overseas, and making a profit in exports.

These courses are also needed because 'many small businesses in Iowa have little or no knowledge of, or no knowledge of, or have never been involved in, exportation of goods overseas,' according to Erbe.

Three classes, developed from research in this field, comprise the program which will be offered on the Ankeny campus for the spring semester. They include: International Trade, International Marketing, and Documentation, all three credit courses.

These courses will assist small businesses and students wanting to work with small business that export and will supply weekly government publications dealing with export opportunities for business and export referrals, Erbe said.

According to a memo sent to D.M.A.C.C. staff, Curriculum Modification in International Trade was funded under a Title III Grant from the U.S. Department of Education. Also funded were New Program Development in High Technology and Improving Institutional Management Capabilities.

Erbe also said the total award for the three programs is $261,814. The Curriculum Modification in International Trade received $62,000 for a 12-month period.

The $62,000 will be apportioned as follows: one-fourth for the salaries of Mr. Erbe, an aide, and a secretary; one-half for seminars and classes; and one-fourth for library and support materials.

A sigh of relief as marathon ends

By COLETTE GUNNINK

One one thousand, two one thousand, three one thousand, four one thousand, five one thousand, BREATHE...were the words echoing throughout Boone as DMACC Recreation Club held its second annual CPR marathon.

The annual CPR marathon was held Nov. 6 through Nov. 8 making a grand total of 48 hours of continuous CPR.

Annie, who was the victim of the entire ordeal and those who were performing CPR on her, traveled to various places during the 48 hours to help promote CPR. Annie traveled to various homes and made stops at Tic Toc, KWBG radio station, and Godfathers pizza.

Annie also traveled to Lynn’s Lounge Monday night. Annie stated her visit to Lynn’s was an enjoyable one and she wants to return again when she is feeling a bit better. Annie also spent a large amount of time in the student lounge over the two day period.

The CPR marathon is held in conjunction with a first aid class taught at DMACC. Each student in the class is required to perform CPR on Annie from 2 to 3 hours in order to receive credit in the class. Other people interested in CPR also helped throughout the marathon.

Those who participated in the marathon accepted pledges and donations for the hours they performed CPR. Proceeds from the marathon will be given to the Red Cross so they can purchase additional CPR equipment.

Semesterswitch changes

BY LORI MCGEE

“The classes are too long.”

“I like it because there are a lot more vacations and breaks.”

These are just a sample of the opinions teachers and students have of DMACC’s transfer to the semester system this year. After examining the options, DMACC decided upon semesters because they believed it would benefit the students in easier transfer to four-year schools. All Iowa’s four-year institutions are on the semester system.

Semester systems would also provide easier cross enrollment as well as registration and book savings.

Mike Garvey, Student Senate president and a liberal arts major, has mixed feelings about semesters.

“There is more vacations and breaks, but it’s confusing for second year students to convert quarter hours to semester hours.

Danelle Moeller, a liberal arts major, likes semesters because it makes it easier to transfer to other colleges, and the month long break between semesters, but she thinks the classes are too long.

Jan Aurelius, speech and drama instructor, had a definite opinion on the subject.

“I LOVE it because it allows us more time to get into the topic at a deeper level and have time to actually develop a broader range of communication skills. Students in small groups have more time to discover and resolve conflicts with other people in the class.”

Sunny Powers, English instructor and Learning Center advisor, addressed the topic from student’s and teacher’s points of view.

“[I like the semester system because there is less class planning, but I think sometimes the students get bored, and if they’re in a class they don’t like, it just prolongs the agony.”

George Silberhorn, Boone Campus counselor, thinks semesters are great.

“There are fewer registration periods which saves money for students and the college, fewer testing periods, and also less class planning for the faculty which is also advantageous to students.”

Careful planning is required to insure that student’s will meet requirements. Students must revise courses to fit the semester schedule and set up a records system to convert quarter credit hours to semester credit hours.

Students are encouraged to check with their counselors or advisors to discuss changes and check schedules.

Area concerts on the rise

By CHRIS HUNT

Recently, going to concerts and shows around the area, is becoming the “in thing” to do. In the last month, Hilton Coliseum in Ames, Veterans Memorial Auditorium and The Civic Center in Des Moines, The UNI-Dome in Cedar Falls and the Five Seasons Center in Cedar Rapids, have offered shows for everyone.

This past month, many popular names and faces have appeared throughout Iowa. Jackson Browne, Third World, Henry Mancini, and Kenny Rogers with the Righteous Brothers and B.J. Thomas all performed at the Hilton. The Civic Center was host to performers which included The Lettermen, Oliver!, The Milwaukee Ballet, David Frizzell and Shelley West, and Lily Tomlin. At Vets, KIOA sponsored a Fifties Rock and Roll Reunion which included Lou Christie, Leslie Gore and others. The Chicago Knockers Mud Wrestling team was also recently at Vets, The groups Heart and Kansas appeared at Five Seasons a few weeks ago.

Two of the latest concerts that have gained widespread publicity in the area were Genesis and Lionel Richie. Genesis performed on Nov. 8, with Lionel Richie putting on a show the day after. Both concerts have been given rave reviews from fans and DMACC students. Those people that missed the hog roast to see Genesis were not disappointed. The band knew how to get the audience going and put on a great show. The Pointer Sisters opened for a crowd over 12,000 at the Lionel Richie Concert. Richie also knew how to please his crowd with old, new, and favorite songs. His wide variety of soft, mellow and rock music were enjoyed by all.

In the future, upcoming events include Stevie Nicks and Joe Walsh on Nov. 20 at the Hilton in Ames; The Statler Brothers on Dec. 2, also at the Hilton; Blas Oyster Cult and Cheap Trick on Nov. 16, and Conway Twitty on Nov. 19, at The Five Seasons Center; and one of the biggest concerts in Iowa, The Police at the UNI-Dome on Nov. 27.

School closing policy

Dean Kriss Phillips has announced that in the very near future it is very possible that he will need to consider cancelling school on Boone Campus because of inclement weather. Often times this decision is a difficult and confusing one to make, he said. There are times that it will be necessary to deviate from the closing of the Ankeny Campus. When in his judgment these times exist, he will take the appropriate action.

He said he plans to arrive at this decision no later than 5:30 a.m. if the conditions in the early morning hours warrant. He will notify the local radio station (KWBG) immediately. To learn of our school closings, listen to KWBG. Other stations that will be notified are KCIM, Carroll; KASI, Ames; KDLS, Perry and Jefferson.

Season approaches for Bears; 'They're quick defenders'

By SCOTT MANWILLER

The '83-84 basketball season is just around the corner. Returning to the squad are Alan Abrahamson, Jay Sawyer, and Pat Kruse. The new members are Mike Clausen, Dave Casotti, Kevin Hammer, Kris Greenfield, Alan Slight, Tim Johnson and Jim Kennedy. Preseason conditioning began Oct.3, and the official practice started Oct.17.

Coach Larry Hughes said that the team's strong points are extreme quickness, above average shooting from all positions, and a strong defense. The guys seem to play well together as a unit and they seem to have fun. A weak point with the team is no one is over 6'5". This could be a big disadvantage when playing against a team with a big, quick player. Hopefully the team's strong points will make up what they lack in height. One other weak point is the team's inexperience, but hopefully with one or two games under their belt they can overcome this.

The first game is Nov. 19 against Marshalltown at 8:00 p.m. at home. The coach said, "The team should be fun to watch because of their extreme quickness."

Boone baseball still in action

By Chris Hunt

On November 1, the Boone campus baseball team began its "spring training" workouts in the gym. Thirty eight players are keeping in shape by running, lifting weights, hitting and practicing plays. These practices are to last all winter except for some time off at Thanksgiving and Christmas. After Christmas break there will be only eight weeks until the first game.

John Smith was satisfied with the fall work and is looking for hard work on fundamentals. The pitching and catching are above average hitting skills.

The team consists of 49 players. All winter the players are a hard working bunch and have the best overall attitude as a team. Hopefully in the fall all of the team's hard work will pay off. The National Tournaments is always a sought after goal and with the good squad Coach Smith has to work with, maybe it's a goal that will be reached.

These people, dressed as they are ....

The Ankeny and Boone Recreation students, not dressed in their normal everyday D.M.A.C.C. attire gathered for a "Boo Whoo!" halloween party at the Alley's home. This was the first party of this type held by the club.

The gang started out with a scavenger hunt in which they traveled in clusters of five to various homes and businesses in Boone. At each stop the group was required to do a certain activity. After doing this the homes or businesses distributed another message sending them to other places of interest. The last message, of course, sent them back to the Alley resident, where the fun continued to boil.

The next memorable event was the "Best Costume Contest," in which the winner received a large Godfather's pizza. Each participant, approximately 25 began to promote their costumes, displaying their particular character's personality.

The winner was then chosen by a panel of judges. Mark McCoy, the crude "son of a gun," or the dirty old was chosen as the winner.

Runners up were Ken Rundle and Randy Bartz, "The Luvalots"; and Jeff Hackett and Ed Vanderheiden as "The Devils."

Alley speaks to UNI

By COLETTE GUNNINK

Twelve students from the Boone and Ankeny recreation clubs traveled in Ol Blue to the University of Northern Iowa Thursday, Nov. 10 and returned home Friday, Nov. 11. The purpose of the trip was to hear Bill Alley's presentation to the recreation students and faculty at UNI and to develop cohesiveness between the UNI recreation club and the DMACC recreation club.

Bill's presentation consisted of a speech and a slide show. He spoke of the advisors role in developing a successful recreation club. He stated the advisor should develop closeness with the group and keep an open mind to the ideas the members of the group come up with. He said that some of the ideas may seem impossible at first but the advisor must be careful not to run down the ideas or it will lower the students enthusiasm in the club. He spoke of various student ideas that he was leary of, but he kept an open mind and they turned out a success. He also stated most groups fail because of a lack of purpose or goal and added students need an incentive and they will become active and participate.

Following Bill's speech the UNI recreation club sponsored a get together with the DMACC recreation club to develop cohesiveness between the two clubs. After experiencing a night on the town with the UNI students the Boone club returned to the glamorous Shady Rest motel.
