Six elected to SAB

by DODI O'LENA
Staff Writer

Six male students were elected to the Boone Campus Student Action Board (SAB) Oct. 1-3.

They are Jeff Dighton, Casey Sonju, Phil Strouse, Anthony Trumm, Rob Lamke, and John Sindahl.

The Student Action Board is the primary student governing body. Students are provided with an opportunity to participate in the operation of this college.

Here is some information about the members:

Jeff Dighton, is attending DMACC for his business major. He is 18 years old and from Boone. His parents are Lyn and Sherri. Jeff says he ran for SAB because he wanted to get involved and is interested in issues such as more intramurals and more social events. He states that DMACC is a good place to get an education.

Casey Sonju, is also attending DMACC for a business major. His hometown is Brandon, S.D. His parents are Gary and Becky Sonju. Casey says he ran for SAB because he wanted to have "a say in the matter." He is also interested in social events and intramurals. He states that DMACC is good for a good education.

Phil Strouse, 18, is attending

DMACC for his business administrative degree. He too wanted to get involved with social events and intramurals. His hometown is Huxley, Iowa and his parents are Richard and Sue Strouse. He commented that DMACC Campus was nice.

Anthony Trumm, from Dyersville, Iowa, is majoring in physical education. He ran for SAB because he wanted to get involved with the school. An issue he finds interesting is the students' demands and the sports awareness. His parents are Eldon and Kay. He says DMACC is a friendly place to get an education.

Robert Lamke, 19, is from Milwaukee, Wi. His parents are Arland and Ruth. His major is sports medicine and says he ran for SAB because he was interested in how DMACC operates. He also wanted to get involved with issues he feels are important to the school. Other issues he finds interesting are distribution of funds, students' desires, and publishing the sports program. He feels Boone Campus is a very friendly place. "It allows you to meet people and actually be someone much easier than at a big 4-year school," he said.

John Sindahl, 20, from Dubuque, is majoring in education. His parents are John and Donna. He says he doesn't know why he ran for SAB but states that he likes Boone Campus.

Other nominees included: Charles Bell, Carolynne Depew, Kim Sellers,

J.B. Slight, Corey Vespestad, and Shellie Wilber.

Approximately 150 students voted using an official voting machine, brought in and set up by Al Sorensen, Boone County commissioner of elections. A Student Leadership conference will be held at the Starlight in Ames, Oct. 19-20. At least two members will be attending.

ISU Singers to perform here Thursday

The Iowa State Singers will perform Thursday, Oct. 18 at 7:30 p.m. in the Boone Campus auditorium. Boone Campus students, faculty and the public are invited to attend! Shown above is an ISU Singers photo, although all of these members may not necessarily perform in Boone.

The Iowa State Singers will appear in concert Thursday, Oct. 18 at 7:30 p.m. in the DMACC-Boone Campus auditorium.

Boone Campus students, faculty, staff and the public are invited to attend. Admission is free.

The group is under the direction of Dr. Richard Molison, director of choral activities at ISU.

The choir is composed of 46 students selected by audition from throughout the University.

Local students in the choir include Becki Phillips, and Gordon Russell, both of Boone.

The choir's program will be a varied one, beginning with works by early classical composers such as Homilius and Palestrina, and a motet "Wherefore is Light Given?" by Johannes Brahms.

Contemporary works by the American composer Joseph Wood ("The Lamb" and "The Tiger") will also be provided, as well as "Campagna" by Andzej Koszewski from Poland.

The final part of the Singer's concert will feature lighter folk songs and spirituals. The concert will close with a medley of college songs.

The Iowa State Singers, first organized in 1948 to provide a "nonacademic" activity for selected students, have built a national reputation through their extensive touring activities in Iowa, several Midwestern and Western states, the East Coast (including New York's Carnegie Hall), in England, and most recently, in their 1989 tour of Poland and the Soviet Union.

The choral program at Iowa State is a large one, with more than 300 student musicians performing annually in six choral ensembles, whose activities range from the performance of madrigals to opera and large symphonic works.

The 46 members of the Iowa State Singers are carefully selected by audition.

Adoption of the elderly

by DODI O'LENA
Staff Writer

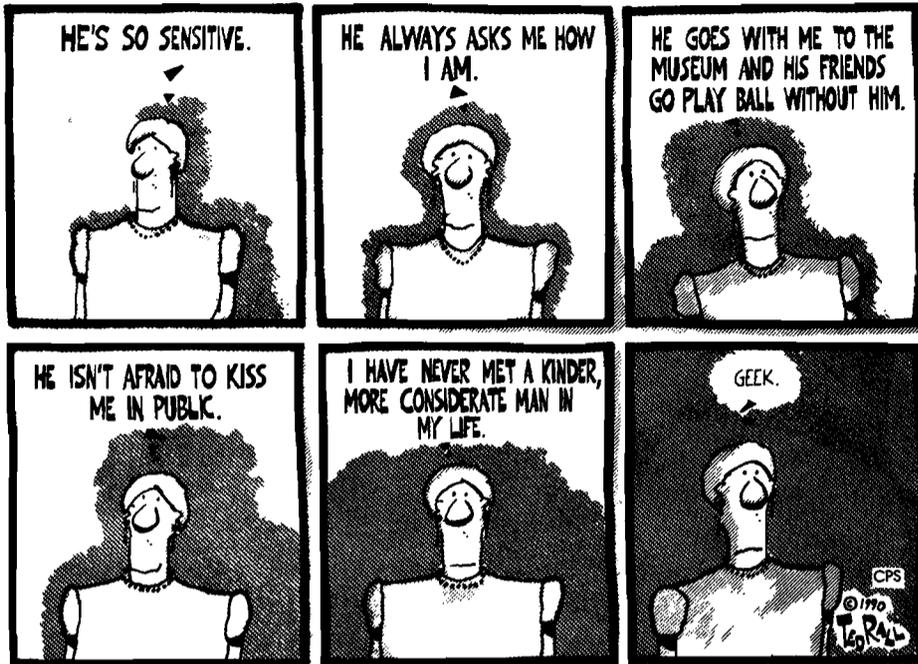

Adoption doesn't just include children; it includes the elderly as well. Many are admitted to nursing homes by their families and left there. While some family members are loyal visitors, others visit seldom, if at all.

As a certified nurse's aide, and having worked in a long-term care facility for three years, I have encountered various elderly people who are lonely and need a friend. They need someone just like you to visit with them once a week for an hour, just to listen and carry on a conversation with them. They enjoy getting to know others both young and old. This allows them to share with you, and you to share with them.

They love the outdoors but seldom get to enjoy it, which is not fair. The staff works constantly to care for their immediate needs; i.e. eating, dressing, sanitary needs, walking residents, range of motion exercises, health and beauty, and bed preparations.

Have you ever considered making somebody like this feel "wanted"? They need you! It doesn't take a lot of time just someone with compassion who would be willing to show them some love and affection.

It is a known fact that the elderly who live independently with a pet have a longer life span than those who do not. Unfortunately, people who live in nursing homes cannot have pets. If a pet can extend a life of an elderly person, why can't another caring individual accomplish the same thing?

Who will win the World Series?

by WADE GODWIN
Staff Writer

Several DMACC Boone Campus students were recently asked who they thought would win the World Series.

- Here are the results....
 Todd Fagen- Oakland A's.
 Shane Sonksen- Pittsburgh Pirates.
 Dawn Green- Pittsburgh Pirates.
 Chandria Russell- Los Angeles Dodgers.
 Lori Blumberg- Kansas City Royals.

It is not the same for a staff member to take 10 minutes of their time in talking with the residents as it is if a person volunteers 10 minutes of their time. Time isn't what matters, it is the quality of the time spent with that person.

We're all human and are all at different stages in our life. But sooner or later, like it or not, we may be wearing their shoes. Looking at the same four walls every day, with the same faces, waiting for someone to enter our room.

Do you care enough to spend one hour a week with a lonely individual? I encourage you to adopt an elderly today.

If you are interested in adopting an individual you may contact any of the long-term facilities for the names of those in need, or see me in Room 210.

- Angie Farrell- Philadelphia Phillies.
 Stephanie Osterhaus- Houston Astros.
 Matt Jones- Oakland A's.
 Michelle Higgins- Boone Bears....who else?

- Tracey Herrick- Chicago Cubs...right after Moses parts the Red Sea again.
 Jeff Bergman- Pittsburgh Pirates.
 Chris Bushore- Oakland A's.
 Travis Sonksen- New York Mets.
 Steve Clark- Oakland A's.

Students comment on overcrowded conditions

by DODI O'LENA
Staff Writer

With this term's enrollment of over a thousand students, should DMACC be planning to expand, or is the Boone Campus large enough to house this number and perhaps many more, in the years to come?

Some students feel there is no problem of being overcrowded, while others feel cramped and left with little space, and would like to see some changes.

Several students and teachers were asked, "What is one solution you could offer for our highly populated campus?"

- Here are their responses.
 Wade Godwin- Add more pool tables.
 Karol Hicks- Add on 10 classrooms.
 Debbie O'Lena- Offer more satellite courses.
 Angie Farrell- Is there one?
 Grant Jordan- Make the requirements harder to get into this school.

- Stephanie Osterhaus- Make the lounges bigger.
 Lori Blumberg- Build another building.
 Theres Miller- First come, first served.
 Sonya Hanna- Expansion.
 Roger C. King- I don't see it as much of a problem because the enrollment drops drastically in the first month or so of classes.
 Jennifer Reedholm- Expansion.
 Kelly Ohm- Expand.
 Jennifer Loucks- Stricter regulations.
 Tina Hardley- Invest tuition money into extra parking spaces.
 Shelli Bishop- Be more strict.
 Corey Vespstad- Bigger classrooms.
 Julie Smith- Yell fire!
 Tracy Hicks- Build another building.
 Jill Burkhardt- Building expansion and work on the possibility of a dormitory to help alleviate housing problems.

Autumn is here!

by KAROL HICKS
Staff Writer

Several Boone Campus students, faculty, and staff members were recently asked, "What do you like most about fall (autumn)?"

Here are their responses:

- Abby Anderson- My children are back in school.
 Missy Anderson- The changing of the leaves.
 Bill Alley- School's back in session.
 James Bittner- Changing the storm windows on beautiful days.
 Brenda Backman- No more gardening work; the canning is done.
 Mindy Cazett- The beautiful weather.
 Steve Clark- Hunting season and the leaves changing.

Jo Dieter- I like all the colors, the sweatshirt weather, and Halloween is one of my favorite times of year.

Darla Earll- The pretty changing of the colors, however I hate the cold.

Connie Garcia- The smell of wood burning and the autumn colors.

Kandy Goslar- The scenery with the leaves falling.

Martha Griffiths- I don't particularly care for fall because that means cold weather is coming!

John Hallengren- Leaves turning colors, football season and fishing (no mosquitoes).

Debbie Johns- Halloween and the beautiful trees.

Janet Kotnek- The changing of the leaves and the crisp air.

Stacie McClure- I don't need my air conditioning anymore.

Marla Orfield- Cool days and the color of the leaves.

Sunny Powers- A fall day is like a freshly baked apple pie, all warm and soft on the inside, and crisp around the edges.

Ann Rasmussen- Nice and cool weather, and all the new faces at school.

Sheryl Robinson- Drives in the country to see the colors of the trees, and that's about it.

Teah Rice- The fall colors.

Jinny Silberhorn- I like it because it's the beginning of a new season. It's invigorating after a long, hot summer.

Becky Tolle- The color of the leaves.

Doris Wickman- Warm days and cool nights.

Working in the 90s

by GEORGE SILBERHORN
Counselor

This month, I'd like to talk about some various careers that are hot for the 1990s!

According to Money magazine, the June 1990 issue, the hottest careers of the 90s are careers that are not only the fastest growing, but also are relatively lucrative, challenging, and prestigious.

Today, experts forecast, graduates just beginning work may plan on switching careers, not jobs, but careers, about three times in their lifetime. New and unique opportunities await. Catch the wave, catch it early.

This selection of projected "hot" careers is offered not as a final word, but as an educated forecast of the decade's major employment trends. The future still has many surprises and many exciting careers are yet to be invented. You may wish to consider the following choices when searching for a major and a career.

Chef- 250,000 openings for trained culinarians are predicted for this year alone. It is predicted that 40,000 new chefs will enter the field.

Health cost Manager- Putting the brakes on runaway health costs is a priority for corporate America. 70% of Fortune 500 companies will have a health care cost manager by 1995.

Computer graphics artist- Commercial artists are trading brushes for computers. Electronic artists work ad agencies and publishers; many prefer free-lancing.

Environmental engineer- Growing concern for world environment is pushing up the demand for environmental engineers. Currently 10 openings exist for every one graduate.

Software developer- Computer hackers can make an honest living. Software design and engineering is the top growth area in the high tech field. An estimated 100,000 new jobs will open during this decade.

International Lawyer- Demand is growing in proportion to the changes in the global marketplace.

Industrial designer- During the past decade openings for job opportunities have increased by over 40% and salaries have doubled.

Physical therapist- Need for therapists during this decade will increase by 57%. This will be one of the 10 fastest growing occupations through the 90s.

Management consultant- Need for consultants in business and industry is projected to be 20% per year throughout the 90s. Currently, financial, computer, and health care industries are the largest employers of management consultants. High tech information systems is an area with the greatest growth potential.

GEORGE SILBERHORN

Mechanical engineer- Mechanical engineers have the flexibility to move into all sorts of fields as needs arise. By 1996, 180,000 openings for engineers will exist.

Infertility doctor- Specialists in reproductive endocrinology require a full decade of work and study following college. Professional perks are considerable.

Human resource manager- The U.S. faces it's first labor shortage in 20 years. For every 10 jobs there are 8 applicants: 4 are women and 3 are immigrants. During the next decade recruiting, training, retraining, diversified staff and handling workplace issues is to be a challenge. A 75% increase in salaries during the past decade offers tangible proof of increasing respect and need for experts in the field.

Special events marketer- In the past five years the number of corporations sponsoring special events has more than doubled. That means a big demand for specialists who promote, plan, and produce the events.

Operations research analyst- An efficiency expert with a computer can process enormous amounts of information, then filter that data to determine cost effective ways to allocate resources, both human and financial, design work space, and distribute products and services.

Bankruptcy lawyer- The big business in bankruptcy of the 90s was spurred by the merger and acquisition of the 80s. The number of bankruptcy cases is mushrooming. Bankruptcy work is one of the legal professions' most lucrative areas.

The following careers didn't make Money's top 15, but they are on the verge; they are surging: biotechnologist, commercial pilot, environmental lawyer, financial planner, fitness professional, geriatrician, horticultural professional, information security specialist, registered nurse, teacher. For details and more information consult Money, June 1990.

The 1990 Career Guide in the September 17 issue of US offers a great deal of career guide information for consideration. Notice that there is a new meaning of success, that personal fulfillment and job satisfaction are once again in style. The goal of a lateral career strategy should be more closely tied to individual performance than in the past. Be cautious, keep an open mind, rave reviews may gloss over truth about pay and demand. Consider civil service; higher salaries and lower barriers make it an attractive consideration.

U.S. News and World Report reports the following hot track careers for the 90s: international accountant, management consultant, software developer, environmental engineer, financial planner, human resources director, health services administrator, corporate-bankruptcy lawyer, quality manager, international marketing, fundraising director, internist, geriatric nurse, chef, paralegal, specialty store buyer, pharmaceutical representative, special education teacher, biomedical researcher, and recycling coordinator. Make appropriate comparisons, investigate the possibilities, research your interests, ask questions, seek answers.

Both of these magazine articles are available for your viewing in special folders in the Boone Campus Library.

Faculty advisors assist with spring registration

by RICH FINNESTAD
Counselor

With spring semester class work beginning on Monday, Jan. 11, many students and faculty members are now busy planning course schedules that will prepare them for the upcoming registration process.

By careful selection of course work, students will be able to meet program requirements, degree requirements and transfer requirements on time and in harmony with their career objectives or objectives of additional education.

Faculty advisors and the departments they represent are listed below:

Department of Biological Sciences - Harold Johnson and Bill Ryan.

Department of Business - Mel Holthus, Vivian Brandmeyer, John Smith, Mary Jane Green, and Linda Plubber.

Department of Chemistry - George Huedepohl.

Department of English - James Bittner.

Department of Health and Physical Education - Larry Hughes.

Department of Government and History - Bruce Kelly.

Department of Journalism - Jill Burkhart.

Department of Library Science - Jayne Smith.

Department of Mathematics - John Doran.

Department of Nursing - Connie Booth.

Department of Psychology - Bob Taylor.

Department of Recreation - Bill Alley.

Department of Computer Science - Dave Darling.

Department of Economics - Gary Stasko.

Department of Music - Jim Loos.

Department of Sociology - Lee McNair.

Department of Physics - Nancy Woods.

Counseling Services and Academic Advising - Rich Finnestad, George Silberhorn and Ivette Bender.

Students will receive a letter listing their adviser and the location of the adviser's office. Students desiring advisor changes because of program or academic changes should contact the counseling office or the adviser of their choice.

School nurse to offer vaccines

by KAROL J. HICKS
Staff Writer

Do you have high blood pressure? Are you up-to-date with your measles vaccine? If you don't know the answers but would like to find out, mark Wednesday, Nov. 14 on your calendar.

DMACC's Carolyn Hildreth, nurse, will be on Boone Campus between 10:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. with the vaccine for any student needing the shot. Blood pressure will also be taken, and in case you haven't had it checked lately, drop in and get it checked out. The conference room in the library will be set-up for the vaccinations.

It's quick, it's simple, and it's free. If you don't take care of yourself, who will?

CAUTION: The vaccine is not recommended for pregnant women or anyone who is sick right now with anything more serious than a cold. Other precautions are listed on the consent form to be signed before vaccination.

There is a sign-up sheet on the wall just outside the main offices. For those of you who desire the vaccine please sign your name so Hildreth will know how many supplies to bring.

INTRAMURALS

by WADE GODWIN
Staff Writer

There are many things going on in the intramural world at DMACC Boone Campus.

There has been a five on five mens basketball tournament. Also a six on six coed volleyball tournament was held October 4.

In the future a snow softball tournament is going to be scheduled among other activities.

The DMACC gym is open Tuesday and Thursday evenings.

Soviet scholar visits Boone Campus

by DODI O'LENA
Staff Writer

Dr. Boris Zhogin, of Stavropol, Soviet Union, was on Boone Campus Sept. 24-26, and visited classes, held a question/answer session and spoke one on one with students.

Zhogin, deputy rector of research at the Stavropol Pedagogical Institute, a teacher's college in an agricultural region of the Soviet Union, was in the United States for the first time and greeted in Boone by Executive Dean Kriss Philips, city leaders, faculty and students.

The exchange was designed to improve understanding between Stavropol, Iowa's sister state in the Soviet Union, and the two super powers.

"I'm amazed that this kind of visit can take place so soon after the Cold War. And I'm excited to see peace between the two countries," said Kriss Philips, executive dean.

Zhogin commented that his expectations of the visit are being surpassed many times over.

Sunny Powers, chair, communications/humanities department, said that she thinks it is definitely worthwhile for DMACC to host visiting delegates from other countries.

"Our students and faculty need to meet people to banish stereotypes we might have about certain nations or relations," she added.

She was delegated the responsibility of setting up classes for Zhogin to visit and opportunities for him to give and receive communications from faculty, staff, and students.

Jayne Smith, librarian, said, "He made me reflect on something I think Americans tend to take for granted, and that is an open-stack library system where we freely browse and help ourselves to library materials. In Russia, the libraries are primarily closed-stack. Library materials are not readily accessible to patrons."

Lee McNair, sociology/anthropology instructor, stated that one comment Zhogin made that stands out in his mind is that books banned as recently as five years ago are now being used as text books at the University.

Boone Campus students were able to benefit through Zhogin's visit because now they are able to view visitors as people, rather than stereotypes presented by the media, according to Martha Griffiths, instructor, Composition I and II.

She was impressed with the enthusiasm the Soviet exhibited in wanting to learn how and what we teach and also his willingness to answer our questions about his areas.

Zhogin visited James Bittner's English class, and left Bittner wishing he had more time to just chat with the visitor, free of the scheduling pressures. Bittner felt the Boone Campus students learned something about the daily life of a Russian family, including rent, child care, food, house work, etc.

During a question/answer in the auditorium, Boone Campus students learned that their counterparts in the Soviet Union study such subjects as American history, Russian, and Russian literature. Most students are part time, and there is a legal limitation on age. Approximately 75% of the students are given scholarships, based on academics. The cost of college is free, plus a 60 ruble stipend on which to live. However, students still need help from their parents or hold part-time jobs.

Zhogin is dividing his stay in Iowa between the four DMACC campuses. He is primarily interested in DMACC's educational system and how it comments on culture, literature, science, and history.

Other Events

The PBL participated in regionals at St. Louis Friday, Oct. 5. State competition will be in Fort Dodge this year.

Last week a meeting was held for the planning of fundraising efforts.

Meetings are usually held the third Tuesday of each month, 12:20-1:15.

CAMPUS LIFE

TEACHER FEATURE

Jim Bittner joins Communications Dept.

by KAROL HICKS
Staff Writer

A warm welcome goes out to James Bittner. Born in Manitowac, Wisconsin 45 years ago, he has spent the majority of his adult life either attending classes or teaching them! Jim teaches Composition 117 and literature here at Boone Campus, and plans to possibly add a science fiction course next year.

Prior to 1967, when he earned his Bachelor's Degree, his favorite subjects were math and physics, leading him toward an engineering degree. He switched over to English, however, and after serving in the military (1968-1970), he worked at, and received his Master's Degree at S. Illinois at Carbondale in 1972. The G.I. Bill helped him earn his PhD in 1979 at the University of Wisconsin-Madison.

Bittner was hired as a contracted, full-time instructor in August, but he taught for many years, including four years at ISU, four years at UNI, two years in Czechoslovakia, and two years (part time) at DMACC - Ames, Ankeny, and Boone. In fact, Jim spent the first couple weeks of this semester in Czechoslovakia, teaching on special assignment for the U.S. government!

He commented that the essays written by Boone students are better than others he has read, and this is his first job with true financial security.

Jim is married (21 years) and lives in Ames with his wife and two of their three children. Ross, the oldest at 17 is a freshman at Iowa City; Audrey is a seventh grader at Ames secondary school; and Karen is in fifth grade in Ames.

Here are a few of Jim's favorite things:

- He enjoys restoring an old 1963 Ford Galaxy convertible.

- His favorite food is: "liver dumpling soup."

- His favorite color is either red or blue, depending on the weather and his mood.

- His lucky number is 7, since he's made it past the 7 year mark three times in his marriage.

- His pet peeve is neighbors who allow their dogs to bark incessantly.

Jim may be found in room #125. Welcome to Boone Campus!

Sunny Powers, chair, Communications/Humanities Dept., comments, "Jim Bittner brings many positive things to the Boone Campus: his education, of course; his many varied experiences in teaching, traveling, pursuing hobbies; and his wonderful wit and sense of humor. I am very pleased that he chose to "settle down" to a teaching career on our campus."

Arts' Day at DMACC

The DMACC-Boone Campus Music, Theatre, and Visual Arts Departments will host Art's Day, Wednesday, Oct. 31, for area high school students.

Events include:

- Workshops to help students in theatre (storytelling), art portfolios for college, and music contest tips.

- Performace showcasing DMACC faculty staff.

- Lunch.

Arts' Day will be conducted from 9:30 to 1 in the auditorium.

If you know of a high school group that may be interested in attending, they may call Kay Mueller at 432-7203.

NSU attends convention

Members of Nursing Students United (NSU) and nursing faculty have been kept busy this fall with various events, according to Connie Booth, department chair and NSU adviser.

Boone campus nursing students and faculty will represent DMACC at the Iowa Organization for Advancement of Associate Degree Nurses convention Oct. 16-17. Watch for followup information in the next Bear Facts.

Also Oct. 16, second level nursing students will write State Boards for their LPN licenses. Good luck to all!

A retirement reception to honor Joan von Grabow, head of DMACC's campus-wide nursing program, will be held Oct. 18 at 3:30 p.m. in The Campus Center. Nursing faculty and students will be helping out with the event.

NSU members enjoyed a potluck luncheon Tuesday, Sept. 25 on the patio. Approximately 50 students and faculty enjoyed an immense amount of food and socializing.

REZOOMERS

Sunny Powers shared tips on how to overcome test anxiety with over 30 REZOOMERS at their regular meeting Wednesday, Oct. 3. Powers is the director of the Learning Assistance Center and is also chair of the Communications Department.

She shared some of her own personal experiences of her return to school as an adult student. She told how to overcome the panic that is sometimes felt during test taking. Sunny made suggestions on study habits, note taking skills, and offered tips on answering various types of tests including multiple choice, true/false, and essay.

Each REZOOMER was given a packet filled with study tips and test taking suggestions.

A video tape of the presentation is available for loan by contacting Maggie Stone, coordinator of the Displaced Homemakers Center, Room 128.

Copies of the "Text Anxiety" packet are available in the Learning Assistance Center and in the Displaced Homemakers' Center.

Student Spotlight

International student tells of life at DMACC

by WADE GODWIN
Staff Writer

Mohamed Izeth Jameel was born in Sri Lanka, a small country just off the tip of India, 20 years ago, and has one brother Dawood Jameel that is attending Iowa State.

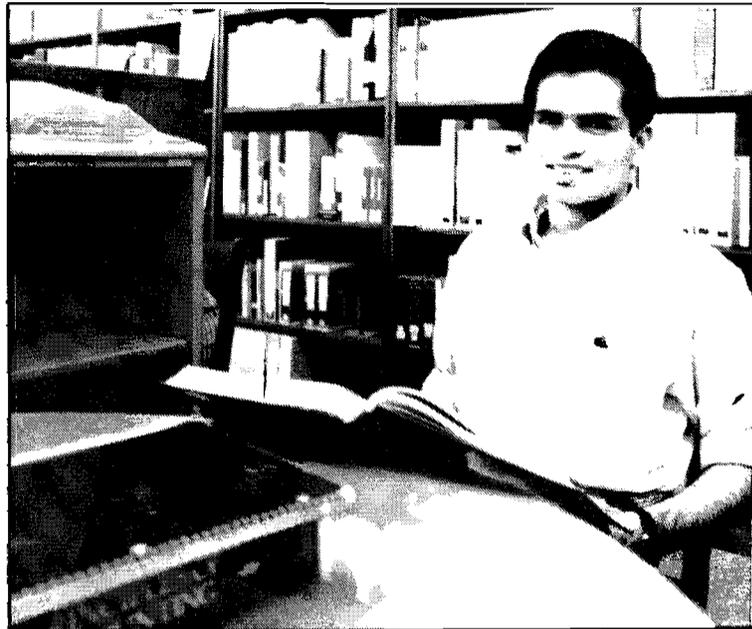

Mohamed's first experience with the U.S. this past spring semester was a very nerve wrecking experience. He said that he was frightened at first but found that people were very helpful and friendly to him.

Mohamed's classes this semester include Math 150, English 104, Accounting 285, Psychology 101, History 122. He is majoring in management information systems, and plans to transfer to Iowa State next fall.

Mohamed commented that the one on one basis between student and teacher is well maintained, and Boone is a good confidence builder before going to ISU. The only thing Mohamed dislikes about coming to Boone is the travel to and from Ames. He added that his brother was at Iowa State and told him that he could transfer to ISU after DMACC.

Mohamed is a very good student, his 18 credit hours keep him very busy. But, he seems to handle it well, making the president's list with a grade point of 4.00.

The fact that the United States has many resources, and if you try hard you can achieve all your goals, is what Mohamed likes most. The one sided media in the United States is what Mohamed dislikes the most, because he feels people should learn the whole story behind a conflict. Mohamed's Muslim religion makes him feel very uncomfortable around here because he must pray five times a day, but he will continue to keep his religious obligations.

MOHAMED IZETH JAMEEL

When Mohamed has time, he enjoys studying in the library, or going to Iowa State and playing cricket with his brother and friends.

Business students participate in WHO radio program, Sept. 30

Approximately 35 Boone Campus business students took part in Des Moines radio station WHO's JOBNET program Sunday, Sept. 30 from 6 to 9 p.m. at Ankeny Campus.

The event was organized by Mel Holthus, Boone Campus business instructor.

"I frequently listen to WHO Sunday evenings while working. I find JOBNET has an enjoyable format with very pertinent information for job seekers, and for those having "problems" at their jobs," Holthus commented.

He added that he first called WHO to see if he could take a group of students to Des Moines to witness the program being broadcast.

"I was advised they couldn't handle a live audience at the studio. WHO offered, then to bring it to Boone for live broadcast. But due to communication-line difficulties, Boone was nixed. They then offered a remote from Ankeny Campus," he added.

Two Boone Campus students, Gary Hill and Lynette Lyon, were actually a part of the program panel. There was also one student each from the Ankeny and Urban campuses. The other students in attendance were spectators.

Others on the panel were Jerry O'Rourke, advertising executive, Spourle and O'Rourke; Cathy Campbell, vice president of human resources, Younkers; and Augie Luthens, attorney. Jack Whitsell and Roxanne Rogers were co-hosts, while Herb Hanger was the announcer.

The format included the panelists asking student panelists questions, and vice versa.

Hill said some of the student questions included dress code for interviews, and handling problems with supervisors.

Questions were also fielded from the audience.

Hill commented, "This was a great experience, and lots of fun. We gained lots of valuable information."

Holthus said, "This was very positive reinforcement for students who attended. I believe they profited greatly from the experience."

He added that DMACC received a great amount of coverage from the broadcast.

"It was fun to participate in an "old-time" radio show. Boone Campus's two panelists did an outstanding job representing Boone," Holthus said.

The JOBNET program can be heard coast to coast on WHO.

Holthus added that Carroll Bennett, Dean of the Evening, Weekend and Off Campus College, and Dan Ivis, DMACC media liaison, were "terrific in their support of the project."

Others attending from Boone Campus were Vivian Brandmeyer, chair, Business Department, Executive Dean Kriss Philips, and the following students: Annette Russell, Bertha Ball, Sherrie Grimm, Charles Ahrens, Tina Clark, Susie Cunningham, Joyce Jones, Ruth Evans, Nancy Kroll, Cheryl Lingelbach, Carol Fairchild, Shelli Bishop, Patty Seeman, Amy Schultz, Shelly Perry.

Tracy Shawler, Jackie Langford, Bonnie Langford, Janet Linn, Julie Shickell, Barb Hill, Janis Duke, Paula Guge, Simi Ventatagiri, Vandana Kathari, Ann Rasmussen, Gail Hull, Aleta Townsend, Traci McGriff, Lynette Lyon, Jennifer Little

Panel discussion to be held in conjunction with Japan Week

A panel discussion, "The Japanese Impact on the Local American Economy," featuring three local speakers will be held Friday, Nov. 12 at 10 a.m. in the Boone Campus auditorium.

This event is free and open to the public. Boone Campus students and faculty are also urged to attend.

The panel participants are Dick Jorgenson, Midland Bioproducts; Ben Guenther, president, Citizens National Bank; and Wayne Seaman, West Central Co-op.

Bruce Kelly, Boone Campus history and government instructor, is organizing the event.

"The main focus of discussion will be the degree to which Japanese-owned businesses impact on the local Iowa economy and what some of the consequences of that impact might be.

"We have the specific example of Midland Bioproducts in Boone, but the panel members and the audience may discuss other examples as they may relate," Kelly said.

He added that examples need not only relate to agriculture and agribusiness, but may also relate to other aspects of the Iowa economy.

"What we hope will take place is a free-wheeling exchange of ideas among ourselves pertaining to the Japanese-Iowa economic connection," Kelly said.

Audience participation is strongly encouraged.

A library update

The Boone Campus Library staff has been making a concentrated effort at making the library a quieter place to study. Many of you may have already noticed a difference.

The typewriters that were once housed in the library have been moved to Room 202. A work request has been submitted to the physical plant to replace the vent above the conference room door with glass to cut down on the noise that often carries over from that room into the library.

Doors exiting to the main hallway are now closed during the daytime hours to alleviate the noise from people passing through the hallways.

Very shortly, the two faculty photocopiers will be moved to Room 136 which will greatly improve the study area in the front of the library.

In addition to these measures, staff have also been taking periodic walks to the back of the library reminding some users of the quiet study policy.

If there are any concerns regarding the library or our services, please do not hesitate to talk with me about them. I want to make the library fit the needs of our students as best I can.

In other news this month, we are pleased to introduce you to our work-study students, and explain some of the duties they perform in the library.

Kandy Goslar, 36, is from Denison. She is a sophomore in business and computers.

"Working in the library has been a good experience for me. I have learned how to find information more quickly and easily for other students and myself. It also has given me a chance to meet new students and get to know older ones better.

She adds, "I'm really glad I got this chance to be in the work-study program. The extra money has made it possible for me to drive the 170 miles to Boone every day."

Kandy works during the busy mid-day hours (11-1), and handles many duties at the circulation desk with ease.

Gary Hill, 43, is from Boone. He is a sophomore in the accounting specialist field.

"The library is a fun place to work. Everyone is very friendly. The work-study provides a good way to help out at DMACC, while earning some extra money," he comments.

Gary works in the late afternoon. During this time he performs general cleanup in the library. He also provides assistance with audio-visual equipment, as needed.

Ronda Mortensen, 29, is originally from Harlan, and now of Ogden. She is a sophomore, also in the accounting specialist program.

"The work-study program is great! It helps us earn a little extra cash," she adds.

Ronda works two hours each day in the early morning. She checks in many of the returned library materials, and works on special on-going projects.

Angie Reese, 18, is from Jefferson. She is a freshman in liberal arts.

"I've made many new friends working in the library. The work-study program is a great way to make some extra money and help out with college. I like it because I picked my own hours and it doesn't interfere with my studies like my other job did," she said.

Work-study help wanted

by LORI BLUMBERG
Staff Writer

For anyone who has been awarded work-study and hasn't applied for a job, it's not too late! There are still a few positions available.

The snack bar is in need of a morning person between the hours of 8 a.m. and 1 p.m. If you are available for even just a couple of hours you are urged to apply.

The Nursing Department is looking for someone to do general clerical duties.

The Book Store needs help between 11:30 a.m.-1:30 p.m.

Tutors are also needed for classes such as math and science.

There are also two off-campus jobs available with the Boone Park's Department, as a recreation assistant and maintenance worker assistant.

If you already have a work study job and need a few more hours you may be able to fill one of these positions for a few hours a week. To apply for a work study position, or for more information, contact Chris Carney in the business office.

Rec students attend IPRA workshop

Seven Boone Campus Rec. students attended the Iowa Parks and Recreation Association fall workshop Sept. 19-20 at Pleasant Hill.

Bill Alley, instructor, accompanied the group.

Sessions included such topics as designing a brochure, parks and recreation services for Iowa's poor, marketing a rec. program, and city parks and recreation development in the 1990s.

Those attending were: Todd Fisher, Todd Fagen, Jim Hoyle, Harry Colbert, Dennis Ege, Ken Stoneburner and Donna McGuire.

Many of the Boone Campus rec students acted as monitors during the various sessions.

Fisher commented, "Second year students seemed to learn and benefit greatly from this experience, while the first year rec. students primarily got a taste for the field of recreation."

Alley said, "With the exception of a few shady areas, this was a successful conference."

Although Boone Campus had the only students at the conference, there were representatives from UNI, U of I, Iowa Lakes Community College, and ISU.

The Rec Club's next function is the National Parks and Recreation National Congress in Phoenix, AZ.

VOTING

by BRUCE KELLY
Government Instructor

(With the election right around the corner, The Bear Facts recently asked Bruce Kelly, Boone Campus history and government instructor, to submit an opinion article on the importance of voting. We now present that article to you.)

All of the excuses for not voting are all too familiar.

"I had to work late."

"I'm too busy."

"I forgot to register."

And then there is the old standby: "Well, my vote doesn't make any difference anyway."

All of these are just that: excuses.

When we consider how easy it is to register and stay registered in America, how simple the voting process is, and how much help there is for those unfamiliar with the process, then the rationalizations for non-voting seem to hold little water.

Voting is also made easier today because of the ending of literacy tests, property qualifications, poll taxes, and many other administrative changes.

There is, after all, only one reason for voting: that it is the right thing to do. It is one of the very few selfless acts in a nation so often preoccupied with the "what's-in-it-for-me" mentality.

One votes, not because he or she is going to get some self-serving gratuity, but rather because it is, at the risk of sounding corny, their duty to their country.

In the words of John F. Kennedy, it is one of those things each of us can "do for our country."

The only reward one should get for voting is the satisfaction one gets from setting parochial interests aside and exhibiting an unpretentious concern for the common good.

Voter turnout in national elections has been declining since the 1960s, and many have attributed this to a feeling of alienation from the political process and from government

But in the view of this humble observer, the problem is not that we have lost confidence in our political system or our leaders. The problem may be that we have lost confidence in ourselves. We have lost our ideological moorings in the day-to-day hustle and bustle of the good life.

There is at least one way to reaffirm our national destiny and our sense of purpose and that is to exercise our democratic responsibility to vote.

There is no need for our young people to stand in front of tanks to secure democratic freedoms.

But by our unwillingness to put into practice those very democratic freedoms, we may be unwittingly allowing them to be lost.

CAMPUS LIFE

Why did you choose DMACC?

by LORI BLUMBERG
Staff Writer

Since enrollment is at an all time high some students were asked, "Why did you choose DMACC-Boone Campus, what is your hometown, and how long will you be here?"

Lisa Luiken - I don't want to move away from home, Ankeny, two years.

Travis Patterson - Close to where I live, Stratford, fall semester.

Lyn Tilley - Convenient location, Boone, two years.

Ronda Mortensen - Inexpensive, close to home, better classes, Harlan, through summer 1991.

Lori Kelley - I wanted to start at a smaller school, South Bend, Ind., one more semester.

Jim Hoyle - Because it is close to home, Grand Junction, through spring.

Donna McGuire - I wanted to go to a smaller school, Clarinda, through spring 1991.

Dawn Green - To play basketball, Omaha, Neb., through spring.

Raleen Lewis - I've never been to college before and it is small, Ames, till January then I'll go to Ankeny.

Happy 60th!

Doris Wickman celebrated her 60th birthday Friday, Sept. 28. Doris has served DMACC the last 15 years as the Bookstore Manager. The Dean's secretary, Paula Trowbridge, was responsible for the decorations!

Recycling comes to Boone Campus

by KAROL J. HICKS
Staff Writer

Recycling seems to be on almost everyone's lips these days. With Walter's Sanitary Service setting up a collection facility in West Boone, it is now easier than ever to participate in a recycling program.

Kriss Philips, Executive Dean, Boone Campus, had a few things to say about the school's present and future involvement: "Iowa is way ahead of most states in our recycling effort since former Governor Ray's reign. We have an ongoing relationship with the Work Activity Center, and Charlotte Nelson has informed me that the Center will furnish containers to collect recyclables (especially paper) here on campus. The containers were expected to be in position by October 1.

"I am personally in favor of recycling and my wife and I are very much involved in the project," he added.

"I also give credit to George Silberhorn, Director of Student Services, who is directly responsible for getting the reusable coffee/pop containers in our snack bar which take the place of the styrene cups now in use."

The cups, for those of you who have not seen them yet, display the "Earth Day" symbol as well as the DMACC Student Action Board lettering. They are available for $1.50 and may be refilled time after time for a nominal fee. There are almost 100 available right now, but more can be ordered if the need arises.

'Said The Spider To The Spy' Boone Campus fall play

by STEPHANIE OSTERHAUS
Staff Writer

The DMACC Boone Campus Drama Department will be presenting "Said The Spider To The Spy," Nov. 9-10 at 8 p.m. in the auditorium.

Tryout were held Sept. 24-25. Cast members are now busily learning lines, rehearsing, and building sets.

The cast includes nine students: Lori Lambert, as Augusta Waycross; Misti Orban, Ida Gormley; Mick Kawahara, The Man; Cory Vespestad, Bryon Peters; Carla Rogers, Ruth St. Martin; Nicole Devens, Julia Sibley; Jim Merrill, Manfred

Sibley; Jacquie Hughes, Adele Addison; and Jim McKean, Dexter Addison.

Director is Kay Mueller, Boone Campus drama and speech instructor.

"I'm really excited about the play because we have a great cast, although it was difficult to choose between all of the great auditions," Mueller said.

Merrill said that he auditioned because, "I always wanted a chance to be in a play and perform for an audience that appreciated art."

"Said The Spider To The Spy" is a farce, so if your looking for a play with confusion, mistaken identity, plot twist, action and humor, this is it!

"I think the play will be an exciting experience, and the cast will be fun to work with," Vespestad commented.

Orban said, "I wanted a part in the play because I knew it would be a good time. The people are great, and I think the play is gonna be a smash!"

If anyone would like to help with set construction, please contact Mueller for additional information.

ISU plans Orientation Days

Transfer Orientation Days for 1990 fall semester at ISU have been scheduled, according to Judith Osborne, coordinator of pre-business advising, college of Liberal Arts and Sciences.

"On each of these days, students will take appropriate placement tests, meet with an adviser and prepare a class schedule for spring 1991. By attending orientation, the student will have a much better chance of acquiring the appropriate classes for spring semester," she said.

The dates for fall semester are Friday, Oct. 26 and Friday, Nov. 2.

Any questions regarding transfer orientation may be directed to the ISU orientation office, 294-4841. Or, you may see George Silberhorn, counselor, in the main offices.

New Faculty

The Boone Campus Employees' Association sponsored a welcome reception for new contracted faculty and staff Tuesday, Oct. 2 in the Campus Center.

Honored were Janice Benson, nursing; Jim Bittner, English; Gerald "Duke" Burrell, computer lab assistant; Rich Carpin, custodian and Dave Darling, computer science.

Several faculty members stopped in to say hello to these new employees.

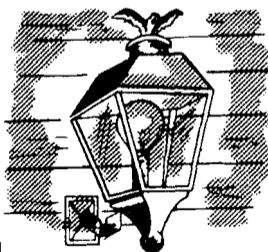

The planning committee was Vivian Brandmeyer, president of the Employees' Association, Sharon Blaskey, Mary Jane Green and Doris Wickman.
