Approximately 40 adventurous people from DMACC-Boone Campus left Sunday, March 17, to start their spring breaks in fine style on a trip to Chicago. The trip was sponsored by the Holst Farm Management, housed at Boone Campus. Gary Stasko, institute director, coordinated the event.

We had the time of our lives as we experienced the sights, sounds and people of the giant city. Sightseeing, shopping and eating out were among the top forms of entertainment, although, we can't leave out the parties. We found that many of the sights in Chicago have historical value, while others were just plain fun. After getting off our Midwest Coach bus, we checked into the Congress Hotel and headed for the sites. The Sears Tower, a 110 floor skyscraper, was probably the most fascinating for its awesome view of the city.

Another attraction was the Shedd Aquarium. This palace of freshwater and oceanic fish was very interesting. It contained fish from all over the world, from sharks to eels. Some bigger than life itself.

The Planetarium gave us great insight on the universe by showing us pictures of planets and stars and other historical information. Included were displays of rocks found on Mars.

The Chicago Board of Trade was another interesting sight. Trying to understand the sign language was virtually impossible.

The Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago, The Chicago Art Institute, and the Field Museum of Natural History were also visited by many of the group.

When not sightseeing, many went shopping. The Sears Tower, the Water Tower, and the many shops along Michigan Ave. such as Bloomingdale's, Neiman Marcus and Sachs 5th Ave. were many of the places where we spent a great deal of our money! Bull's T-shirts and beer mugs topped the items bought.

Getting from place to place was an adventure in its own. It consisted of blocks and blocks of walking and crossing busy street corners which was of great risk to our health. When our legs got too tired, we used some of the great services of the Chicago cab drivers or the city bus systems. These made it easier to get around rather than walking.

Eating out was another category high on many people's lists. Hard Rock Cafe, 50's McDonalds, Burger King and Subway seemed to be the most popular. Besides eating out, many people, including myself, ordered lots of pizza from Domino's late at night. Bars were also very popular during the night life.

Each day was filled with excitement, and aspirin-taking adventure. From sightseeing to shopping to eating to parties, we all had a great time!

What is the fate of Bo Jackson?

While everybody was enjoying spring break, a national sports figure shocked the nation with some disappointing news. Bo Jackson, the multi-talented running back for the Los Angeles Raiders, and the star outfielder for the Kansas City Royals, found out that a hip injury he sustained in the last playoff game was much more serious than expected. Most doctors who have examined him said that the injury would be career ending. Several DMACC students were asked about their reaction to Jackson's situation.

Joe Meyers - I feel real bad because he was a great athlete.
Scott Swier - I think this could hurt his Nike ad campaign.
Tina Hardy - I think if he has to quit, he better before it gets worse. Besides, if he has to quit, he has already made millions.
Scott Clatt and Troy Heathman - We think he will quit football, but who have examined him said that the printed bi-weekly at Des Moines Area for DMACC. Travelers comment on Chicago Trip

by COREY VESPESTAD
Staff Writer

While sitting on the long bus ride back from the beautiful city of Chicago, I asked the group this question, “What was your favorite aspect of the Chicago Trip?”

Here are their responses:

Todd Kibbsgaard - In enjoyed FanFair in the Sears Tower and Coors Light in the hotel.
Jodi Koppes - The bear pyramid, the taxi drivers, and the fake wake-up call! Thanks Corey and Todd.
Corey Vespestad - Being grazed by a white van while standing on the curb, the great Coors pyramid, and the ability to stay alive after crossing the streets.
Renee Santi - Trying to take it slow with dozens of beer cans and watching Tim try to rebuild the pyramid he knocked over.
Curt Muir - Being at Bonnie’s with three girls.

Campus cleanup, River Valley visit are Rotaract projects

by KAROL J. HICKS
Editor-In-Chief

Volunteers from the Boone Campus Rotaract Club gathered Wednesday, March 27 to begin spring clean-up efforts. However, they were just one day late as the weather turned cold and damp and the event was postponed.

Although there was a great turn-out for the annual event, and the group voted on continuing the campus cleaning on an individual basis.

It was noted that the entire student body could help maintain the beauty of Boone Campus, by picking up pieces of trash going to and from the parking lots each day.
The visit to River Valley Residence in Boone was a huge success again this year. The residents are always grateful for a diversion in their schedules. The people out at the home were very helpful in the planning for our visit. Win, Lose, or Draw was played, and Lee McNair, club advisor, and Rotaract members helped some of the residents make friendship bracelets.

A bake sale will be held Friday, April 12 and the staff and students can help Rotaract collect money for scholarships by purchasing some of the baked goods. It’s for a good cause, so the Rotaract Club asks you to make the bake sale a success.

All members who are not able to attend meetings are asked to help the sale by making something and donating it to the project.

Three states take on NCAA

(CPS)—State politicians joined the college sports reform movement in recent weeks. Legislators in at least three states, some angry about the way the powerful National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) has treated schools in their districts, introduced bills that would excuse local campuses from following some NCAA rules.

Supporters of bills in Nebraska, Nevada and Colorado say certain NCAA rules abuse college athletes and coaches.

"They really don't do their jobs very well," Nevada Sen. John Vergiels said of NCAA officials.

Most recently, on March 1, Nebraska Gov. Ben Nelson signed a law that would let Nebraska colleges give athletes more aid than just sports scholarships.

The NCAA limits how much aid students can get from other grants if they accept athletic scholarships.

The new law could leave Nebraska schools that violate the NCAA aid rules out of NCAA telecasts, revenues and even games with other NCAA-member schools.

Reformers hope the NCAA will lift the limits on helping athletes before the law goes into effect on June 1, 1992.

When he signed the bill into law, Nelson expressed "fervent hope that voluntary national organization will do the right thing and allow both needy and academically talented young Americans to draw all the student aid for which they qualify." At the same time, Nevada's Sen. John T. V. Vergiels noted the student vote was very well, "Nevada Sen. John Vergiels said there is no way the NCAA handled its investigations of Jerry Tarkanian, basketball coach at the University of Nevada-Las Vegas.

"What people and legislators don't understand is how much due process there is in enforcement of the regulations," Marchiony said.

The rules are written by the (member) schools themselves, and can be changed by the schools," he explained.

Marchiony said state reform laws would either force NCAA members to change association rules or spark a series of punishments of member schools that comply with their state laws.

Vergiels said there is no question that the NCAA must comply with state law.

Eureka college votes to keep Red Devil

EUREKA, Ill. (CPS)—Students at Eureka College, a disciples of Christ-owned school that is Ronald Reagan's alma mater, voted overwhelmingly in February to keep the Red Devil as their mascot, despite college President George Hearne's misgivings.

"There are still some concerns," Hearne told the Pegasus, Eureka's campus paper, about "the apparent paradox of a church-related school bearing the devil as its mascot."

Hearne noted the student vote was not binding.

Students don't eat properly

(WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind. (CPS)—American teens are eating less and getting fatter, University of California-Davis nutrition Prof. Carol Meredith told a health workshop at Purdue University in early March.

"About 25 percent of the food adolescents choose to eat is junk food," she said.

Student claims college risked infecting her with AIDS

BUFFALO, N.Y. (CPS)—An unnamed Erie Community College student has sued her school, claiming she was pricked by an AIDS-contaminated needle while working in a hospital course required for an ECC program.

The student, whose name was kept private by state courts, said she was pricked with a needle while drawing blood from a know HIV-positive patient during an ECC blood therapy program at Veterans Hospital in November.

Taking On The NCAA: Three state legislatures, including Nevada's are considering bills that would exempt local campuses from following some NCAA rules. Many Nevadans were upset with the way the powerful association handled its investigations of Jerry Tarkanian, basketball coach at the University of Nevada-Las Vegas.
